David Stone is Managing Partner at inQUEST, a global consulting firm committed to partnering with clients to create workplaces that work for everyone by purposefully strengthening team and organizational cultures. David's broad experience as an attorney, consultant, mediator, trainer, and facilitator enables his clients to connect authentically, align strategically, and move forward together towards improved performance. At the core of David's approach is the commitment to engage in the hard work of deeply understanding ourselves and one another and then to use this knowledge to change our behaviors and enhance practices, processes, strategies, and structures within organizations.

In addition to his unique professional perspective, David is sought-after for workshops and dialogue sessions specifically for his engaging style, which emphasizes empathy and intellectual rigor, coupled with a good amount of levity and humor. David currently serves on the Dispute Resolution Section Council of the Massachusetts Bar Association and on the Advisory Editorial Board for This Can Happen, a global consultancy whose vision is to support organizations to empower workplace mental wellbeing. David has been recognized as Trainer of the Year for his work with the Center for Conflict Resolution in Chicago, where he also founded and served as the executive vice-president of the Chicago Jewish Day School.
